

Together, we can create safer workspaces, schools, and community spaces in Loudoun County.

If you live or work in Loudoun, we invite you to join us on the third Wednesday of each month to learn more about:

- Trauma-informed approaches
- Community support services and program partners
- Building resilient communities
- Outreach to vulnerable groups
- Making your organization safer and more equitable

The Loudoun Trauma Informed Community Network (TICN) is a diverse group of individuals from various sectors—public, private, non-profit, state and local government—who seek to foster a resilient community that promotes health, healing and compassion through collaboration, education and community engagement.
