

Keeping Children Safe, Together

2023 IMPACT REPORT

ONE MISSION

Protect children from abuse.

For over three decades, Stop Child Abuse Now (SCAN) has been making Northern Virginia safer for kids. As a survivor-led organization, SCAN puts each child's needs at the center of its work. We believe all children deserve fundamental human rights, including the right to physical and emotional safety.

SCAN is the only organization in Northern Virginia focused solely on preventing abuse against children. We bring national research and best practices to transform local schools and institutions, making spaces safer for kids everywhere they live, learn, work, and play. SCAN's critical programs build strong networks, lift up families, advocate for youth in the court system, support professionals working with children, and give a voice to survivors. Most importantly, we make child abuse prevention a priority in our community.

A national and global epidemic

Only 1 in 3 incidents of child sexual abuse are identified...and even fewer are reported.

91% of Victims are abused or neglected by someone trusted by the child's family.

Every 10 Seconds a report of child abuse is made in the United States.

35 Years of Community Impact

For 35 years, SCAN has been changing the lives of children and families in Northern Virginia. What started as a grassroots effort led by our founder, Dave Cleary, has evolved and strengthened into an innovative organization that puts children first.

TODAY: Your support allows SCAN to change more lives than ever before

Our Priority is PREVENTION

SCAN is always looking for the best, most innovative solutions to make our mission a reality. We believe every adult has the opportunity to stop child abuse, and when we all take an active role in prevention, we can protect more children and build safer communities.

INSTITUTIONAL ABUSE PREVENTION Creating safe spaces that prioritize children's rights.

By partnering with organizations that families already trust (schools, daycares, faith communities, etc.), we're able to implement violence prevention programming that creates a standard of care for all children within a community, keeping them safe from abuse wherever they are. When all adults who interact with children – teachers, coaches, faith leaders, caregivers, and parents – have a common understanding of children's rights and are confident in how to prevent child abuse, children are safer.

PUBLIC AWARENESS Making child abuse prevention a community priority.

Our goal is to mobilize all adults to take responsibility for safeguarding children. Through a variety of media, community events, and other awareness efforts in all of Northern Virginia, we, as subject matter experts, educate and engage the community in a conversation about our collective responsibility to keep children safe from violence.

CHILD ADVOCACY A voice for children in the court system.

The Alexandria/Arlington Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) program provides trained volunteers appointed by the court to serve as a direct voice for children in the juvenile court system. The CASA Program has helped hundreds of children who have been abused or neglected have a voice within the court system.

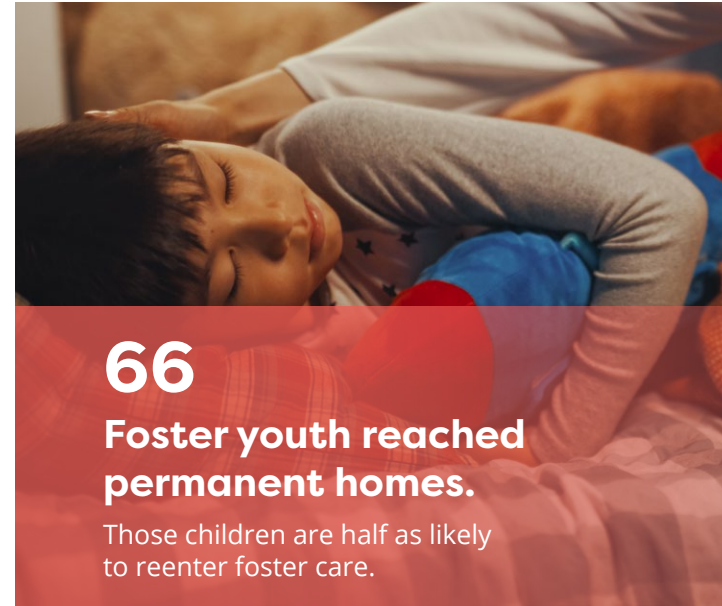

FAMILY SUPPORT We are here for families.

We engage families, caregivers, and children who are marginalized or otherwise vulnerable and, therefore, more susceptible to abuse and violence in the home. SCAN provides evidence-based programming, informative workshops, and relationship-building events to bring families together to celebrate their strengths and address challenges in a safe, supportive environment.

CHILD ADVOCACY

A voice for children that have been abused or neglected.

When a child is removed from their home due to abuse or neglect, case workers, judges, teachers, lawyers, doctors, and other first responders get involved. Our advocates are the only adults on a child's case whose sole interest is the child—and they are often the only adults who remain with the child for the entirety of their case.

Children with a CASA are...

More likely to be adopted

More likely to do well in school

More likely to have a plan for permanency

Half as likely to reenter foster care

SCAN's Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) program serves children that have been abused or neglected in Alexandria City and Arlington County. Our team onboards 30+ new volunteers each year. Our best-interest advocacy is driven by the guiding principle that children grow and develop best with their family of origin, if that can be safely achieved. Most of the children we work with are in foster care, and the majority of children who leave foster care do so to return to their families.

A voice for children

Our CASA volunteers complete 6 weeks of training before taking a case to advocate for children removed from their homes. Their mission is to give children a voice, all while making sure they don't get lost in an overburdened system. CASAs stay with their child until they reach a safe, permanent home.

A voice for the courts

Volunteers on a case spend an average of 10-20 hours a month meeting with everyone in the child's life. They collect information and provide the court with unbiased reports that help judges understand what the child needs and make decisions in the best interest of the child.

Changing lives...

MARIA'S STORY

Maria was 14 when she suffered one of the most traumatic losses a child can endure. Her mother died by suicide. Maria's father did not have the skills to process the trauma or recognize his daughter's rapid deterioration, and he would not allow Maria or the family to work through the tragedy in therapy.

Without a safe and supportive home to process her feelings, Maria struggled with suicidal ideation and was hospitalized. Her father did not come to visit or participate in her recovery. In fact, he moved the rest of the family 2,000 miles away and ended all contact with Maria.

Maria was placed in foster care and left to suffer from abandonment, anxiety, depression, self-harming behaviors, and an eating disorder without anyone who cared for her.

Because of our supporters, SCAN connected Maria with Jill, a highly trained Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA).

Every month, Jill met with Maria to help her navigate the difficult foster care system. Jill's consistency and passionate advocacy for Maria helped Maria heal from the trauma she had experienced. Jill even supported her academic ambitions by joining Maria on university tours and helping her complete college applications. Jill's presence and advocacy allowed Maria to improve emotionally and succeed academically—to the point of getting accepted to her first-choice university with a full scholarship!

Maria is just 1 of the 143 children our CASA program served in 2023.

FAMILY PROGRAMS

Support and learning for families

Anyone who cares for kids knows that parenting is not an easy job. Our Family Programs are designed to strengthen positive, healthy parenting habits. We lift families up, build community, and give caregivers a safe space to work through parenting challenges.

Building community

Classes for new parents

For decades, parent education has been focused on trying to find ways to stop a child from doing something. But preventing abuse requires us to think differently. SCAN's 8-week Circle of Security® series teaches caregivers how to help things go right by understanding healthy, secure relationships with their children.

Groups for parents and tweens

The tween and teen years can be tough. Kids navigate puberty, bullying, peer pressure, and other obstacles. In our hands-on 7-week series, parents and their middle schoolers work with experts to build communication skills and strengthen bonds through fun games, projects, and discussions.

Alumni workshops

Our classes are a starting point for caregivers. After two months of learning, they are better prepared to tackle challenges but still aren't expected to have all the answers. Our workshops keep cohorts connected and offer continued support as children grow.

One-on-one support

Personalized solutions

Our families spoke, and we listened! In response to COVID, all of our programming went virtual, and we launched a one-on-one Family Coaching service. Today, it remains our most in-demand Family Program.

Caregivers meet with their SCAN Coach weekly for three months to identify goals and create a targeted family plan. Coaching is completely customized to meet a family's needs and schedule, making it a great fit for those who are up against busy schedules or need extra support.

Family coaching can help families address routines, power struggles, discipline, parental anger, difficult conversations, and so much more.

Changing lives... MEET OUR FAMILIES

Most of the families we serve are court-mandated to complete parenting education. They are often survivors of abuse themselves, working to break the cycle and build a safe, happy home for their children.

For single caregivers, parents working several jobs, or families that just need some support, SCAN's courses strengthen family bonds, teach positive discipline, and keep families together.

But don't just take our word for it...

Since completing Coaching at SCAN, there's been a big change in my relationship with my daughter.

Our bond feels stronger. She's talking to me more about what's going on in school, getting her homework done, and keeping her room clean.

I've accepted that challenges will come in my teen's life, but I have the tools to support them as they come now.

My daughter is autistic. SCAN helped me understand autism, create routines for my daughter, and know what I should do as a mother in any crisis.

SCAN's Coaching Program taught us to prioritize our child's feelings and empowered us to be better parents. We are so grateful.

What did I learn? To enter my child's world, and base interactions on how to make that world a better place, from his perspective.

SCAN's classes helped me be an example for my daughter. I've learned how to apply rules, discipline, praise, and love in ways that help my children grow. For me, it was an excellent program and very important.

Now I understand my children more. We share more together and I show them that they are important to me every day. I'm very grateful for SCAN's help.

INSTITUTIONAL ABUSE PREVENTION

Safe spaces that put children first

Teachers, coaches, faith leaders, and professionals working with children are the most common reporters of abuse and neglect. We bring comprehensive, research-driven solutions to the institutions that serve our children so kids can be safe everywhere they are.

Our Approach

For years, we have trained thousands of professionals working with children to recognize and respond to abuse. Now, we're going beyond training to transform the institutions that serve our children into safe spaces that are inhospitable to abuse. Our support is comprehensive and sustainable, designed to have a lasting impact beyond one training.

Staff training

Education that covers mandated reporting, boundaries, youth-on-youth abuse, and more for the whole team.

Facility and HR audits

Reducing the risk of abuse on site by screening for suitability and identifying danger zones.

Policy and procedures

Creating lasting change by drafting model policies that set healthy boundaries and change work culture.

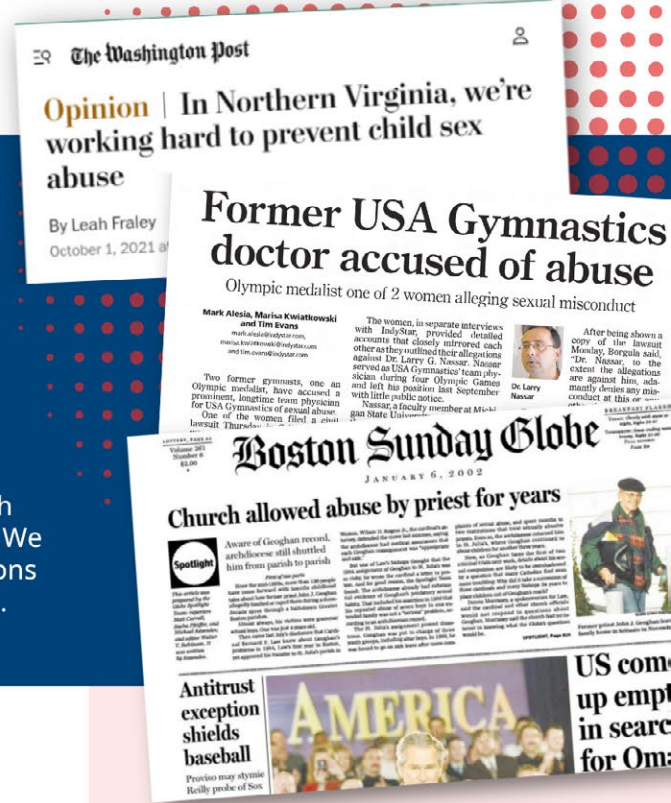

Case review

All of our training is based on real cases and informed by survivors. When a new case arises, our experts are available to consult and help find the best resolution.

Ongoing support

When questions arise, our safety experts are here to discuss challenges and respond.

1 in 10

70% of offenders have 1-9 victims.
20% have 10-40 victims.

Serial offenders will seek out employment at institutions with poor safeguards against abuse.

86%

unreported altogether.

Access to a trusted adult helps children feel safe and comfortable to disclose abuse.

Safe spaces everywhere children are

From after-school programs to faith groups and businesses working with kids—we transform organizations and cultivate a community that puts child protection first.

Our programming is grounded in research from top institutions across the country and designed with our partners to meet their specific needs.

Changing lives... regional impact

Partners in Loudoun

In the past two years, we've deployed our IAP program at one of the largest mosques in the US and Loudoun Public Schools, building custom solutions where they're needed most.

Survivor roundtables across NOVA

As advocates and supporters, it's our responsibility to listen and learn from those with lived experience. Our survivor roundtables help professionals understand how we can better serve those with lived experiences of harm.

The Belonging Project in Prince William

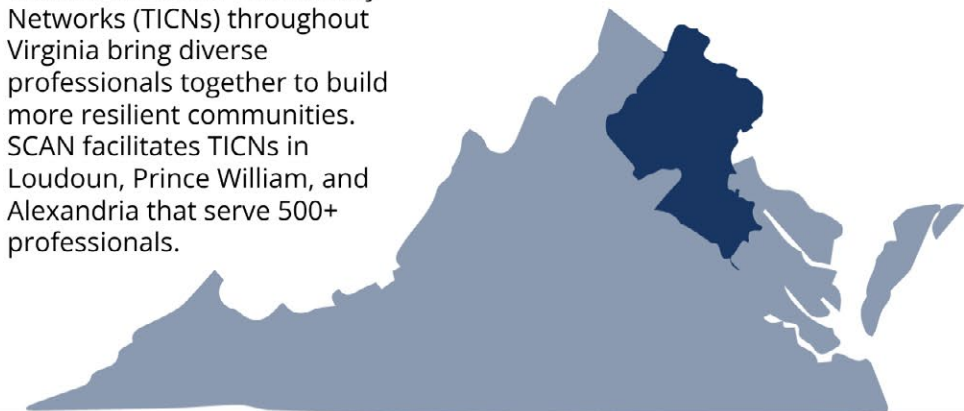

We've partnered with diversity, equity, and inclusion experts to launch The Belonging Project, a collaborative learning journey for professionals. The project fosters safe spaces for all.

TICNs across NOVA

Trauma-Informed Community Networks (TICNs) throughout Virginia bring diverse professionals together to build more resilient communities. SCAN facilitates TICNs in Loudoun, Prince William, and Alexandria that serve 500+ professionals.

Preventing child sex trafficking in Fairfax

We're partnering with Fairfax County to create a multidisciplinary team of healthcare providers, educators, law enforcement, and human service partners to prevent trafficking.

PUBLIC EDUCATION

Activating our community

Child abuse is incredibly common. In 2023 alone, there were over 100 referrals of abuse every day in Northern Virginia. Yet child abuse and neglect remain taboo topics. Our Public Education efforts are focused on making child abuse prevention a top priority across the region and beyond.

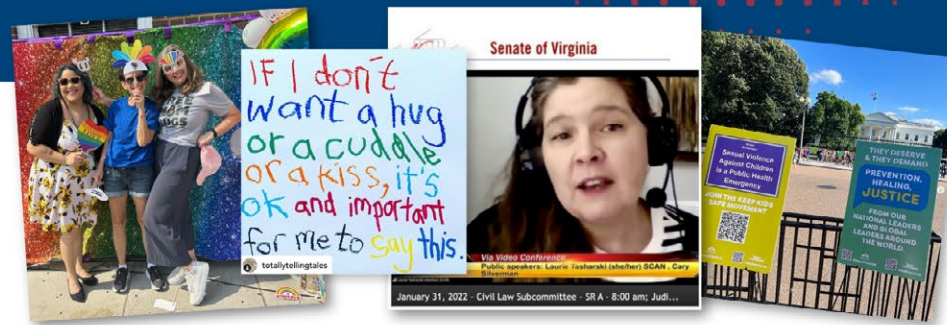

1 in 7

Spreading awareness

While abuse is common, it does not affect all children equally. For example, we know LGBTQ+, and specifically trans youth, are at a significantly higher risk of sexual abuse than heterosexual youth.

Our campaigns help the public understand which communities face the biggest risk and how we can all better protect our most vulnerable children.

Changing norms

Abuse is also highly underreported. At SCAN, we believe all survivors. And we believe their stories need to be heard.

By sharing survivor stories, we normalize living through abuse, help victims reclaim their past as empowered survivors, and show youth today that when they report, they will be heard and supported.

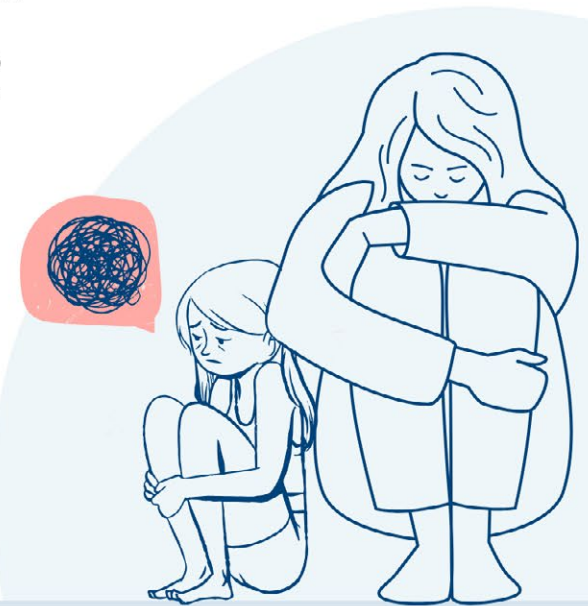

Childhood lasts a lifetime

When children who have been abused are not given the resources or support to recover, the long-term effects can become life-threatening.

Childhood abuse has been linked to dozens of physical and mental health problems. We know far more people experience PTSD due to childhood abuse than other traumas, and that childhood abuse has been linked to depression, anxiety disorders, eating disorders, chronic pain syndromes, fibromyalgia, chronic fatigue syndrome, and more.

Compared with other adults, those who experienced childhood abuse are more likely to engage in high-risk health behaviors, like smoking, alcohol and drug use, and unsafe sex. Survivors report an overall lower health status, and to use more health services.

But childhood abuse is preventable, and children can recover. That's why SCAN's work is so critical.

Why we go blue a national symbol for prevention

30 years ago, a grandmother in Virginia used a blue ribbon to remember her grandson, who died at the hands of his abuser. It soon became a symbol of support for child abuse awareness. Today, blue is nationally recognized as the symbolic color of child abuse prevention.

To our team and supporters, going blue is a small way to have a big impact. Each April, we partner with dozens of organizations to turn Northern Virginia blue in recognition of Child Abuse Prevention Month. Pinwheel gardens are planted throughout Alexandria, Arlington, Fairfax, Prince William, and Loudoun to bring awareness to our mission and show support for survivors.

We also host the region's largest blue-tie event, our signature Toast to Hope gala. For decades, the event has brought hundreds of Northern Virginia's most dedicated supporters, survivors, and partners together to stand up for abused and neglected children.

Envisioning the Future of SCAN

At SCAN, we never stop seeking new ways to protect and support children.

Now more than ever, we hold onto the fundamental belief that all children are born with an inherent right to safety, wellbeing, and equitable treatment, safeguarding them from abuse, exploitation, and neglect. As SCAN celebrates our 35th anniversary, we envision the next chapter for our organization.

Our vision is to create a community where everyone takes responsibility for keeping children safe from abuse in all the places they live, learn, work, and play.

In partnership with our staff and Board of Directors, SCAN has adopted the following goals as a part of our five-year strategic plan.

Our five year plan...

Become the leading voice for the protection of children across the region.

Mobilize child-serving organizations in Northern Virginia to take responsibility for their role in keeping children safe.

Advocate at the local, state, and federal levels to build capacity and commitment to child abuse prevention.

Compel the Northern Virginia community to take collective responsibility for keeping children safe.
